OLD RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

In the early hours of Monday morning April 2nd death laid claim to a pioneer settler of Vulcan district. A silent sufferer for some months, so that when the end came it appeared very sudden to the community. He was known of all, hale, hearty and distinctly western in his personality. Or ever there was a Vulcan, Mr. Johnston's house was the landmark of direction to the incoming homesteaders as they crossed the Little Bow, working east from Nanton. This was in 1905, and he died almost to a day on the twelfth anniversary of his arrival here. He came from Carman, Manitoba, where he had settled in the spring of 1870, having spent the previous fall and winter at Fort Garry, which is now Winnipeg. It was on November 2nd, 1871, that he married Elizabeth Kennedy, a Peterboro' lady. Five sons and four daughters were born to them, all of whom came to Vulcan, Alberta, and settled here.

The deceased was a thorough Canadian, having been born at Fredericton, N. B., on June 20th 1848, moved to Woodstock, Ont., in 1867. When at his majority he struck out for himself to the Nor-West, stopping at Fort Garry in the days of the Reil Rebellion he travelled from St. Cloud, U. S. A., to the Fort by ox-cart and walking a distance of nearly 500 miles. He knew what it meant to go into the forest, cut logs, float them down to the Fort, and there whipsaw them into lumber.

He was always interested in benevolent and religious work, while not active in politics was reckoned as a Liberal. His well known figure will be sorely missed, and the sympathy of town and country goes out to the widow and children who mourn the loss of a loving father.

Funeral services at the house were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Pouchie, of Alston, and at the Oddfellows hall by the Rev. A. R. Schrag, interment taking place at the new cemetery, Vulcan.

The funeral was under the direction of G. L. Jacques, undertaker and embalmer, Vulcan.

PEGGY O'MOORE

"Little Peggy O'Moore" is a play that goes right home to the average audience because the story it tells rings true. Peggy is a slip of an Irish girl. When her parents died they appointed Dan Murphy her guardian, and Peggy at last comes to America to see this Dan Murphy of whom she has heard so much. Dan is the mayor of a typical American city and Peggy arrives at a time when Dan is up to his neck in a political battle for re-election. The young district attorney, who is Dan's political opponent, has made a savage attack on Dan and Matthew Hogan, a contractor and political boss. Howard Richmond, this political rival, falls in love with Peggy and for a time it looks as though Peggy reciprocated all his attentions, but as time passes, her admiration for her guardian ripens into love and that sounds the death knell of Richmond's love affair. Jacob Webster, president of the Webster National Bank, tells Richmond of the irregularities at the bank, and informs that Murphy as chairman of the board of directors at the bank, has made misuse of the funds. Richmond eagerly seizes upon this as good campaign material and spreads the rumour broadcast. Murphy and Hogan withdraw their accounts from the bank. The people of the South end who have become depositors in the bank through the influence of Murphy and Hogan, learn that these accounts have been withdrawn and they believe the stories of irregularities at the banks.

Such is only half the story of this romantic play. From first to last the play is full of dramatic and comedy interest. It is at the new Opera house on Saturday evening, April 7th. Secure your seats at the Jones Drug Store.

R. C. SERVICES.

Easter Sunday Mass will be said in Shimp's hall instead of in the Ferrodale school. This change has been made in order to accommodate the large congregation which is anticipated.

BROADWAY JONES

The descent of 'Broadway Jones' upon Vulcan was of so sudden a nature that there was scarcely sufficient notice to ensure a full house, but those who were there fully enjoyed the fare provided. 'Broadway Jones' is a sample of the later idea of comedy, we are brought to laugh at a man's misfortunes following on his folly. The average person, slipping through a quarter of a million in four years, would be viewed and judged from a far different standpoint to that from which we see 'Broadway Jones'. But the exigencies of comedy are legion, and so, if Broadway and his friends see his weaknesses as a joke our only affair is to laugh with them.

The play itself is a good one, but it can hardly be said that the players availed themselves of its many opportunities. There were moments in the play which were longer than hours, and there was also uncertainty as to the lines in a few places. The better sustained parts were those of the men, the ladies being unsuited to their parts. Undoubtedly the best piece of acting was given by 'Judge Spotswood'.

But notwithstanding the apparent defects the play went with a good swing and kept the audience heartily amused from first to last.

Incidentally it is not out of place to call attention to the cat-calls and other wierd noises with which the audience were regaled by a certain section—happily in the minority—from time to time. Wonderful and indicative of latent talent though these noises may be, it would be well for the gifted creators thereof to bear in mind that they themselves do not constitute the entire audience.

WAR AND SOCIALIZATION

When the war is all over and we get down to reviewing it in its many lights and phases, the most striking thing that will appear will be the marvellous socialization that has taken place as a result of it. There is not an incidental in the lives of any of us today which has not come under its influence. Every calling and profession has been affected to an even greater degree than many of us are aware of today. In our private lives we are the subjects of the changes that war has wrought. In our public lives, we have been aware of it also in the demand not only for enlightened legislation, but for a class of legislation which would bring about a spirit of national conservation, of which the spread of, and demand for, prohibition is only one instance. In the older countries at war, the steps toward socialization have been far greater. In Great Britain, for instance, the war has wrought almost miracles bringing the public utilities out of private into public ownership, and during the past few days the greatest barrier, that of the voting qualification, has fallen down, and women are to be given the vote. Russia, too, has passed through a stage which centuries of agitation during peace times failed to evolve, for she has replaced Absolutism by a Republic; today she stands on the eve of a greater social and national development than perhaps any other country in the world.

Now all these radical changes have been brought about, nay, forced upon the different countries by the very fact of the war. If the war was to be won and no stumbling blocks were to beset the path, the existing anomalies to national control of the nation's wealth and strength had to be brushed out of the way. In other words, it was not possible to conduct a people's war without taking the people into partnership; they are the fighters and the workers and they will be the losers or the gainers by the war, therefore they must have full control of the means and methods.

When the war broke out and international socialism, so far as it had gone, broke down under the strain of every socialist flocking to the standard of his own nation, there were not wanting people to tell us that socialism was dead and that the absolutism if not the armies of the Kaiser would triumph over the rest of the world. And yet, after almost three years of war humanity stands on the threshold of a greater socialistic future than the most optimistic dreamers had ever thought possible for centuries to come. After the war, too, the movement will progress, for once the journey is entered upon and man becomes aware of his strength and his value, no system will be powerful enough to restrain him from exercising the full rights which the war has gained for him.

THE NEW CHURCH

After a lapse of almost seven years the people of Vulcan and district have got a Church. It has been a long time materializing, but at last it is built and ready for the dedication service which will take place on Easter Sunday morning.

It is a peculiar thing, but we in Vulcan have gone without a Church longer than we have any other necessity of community life. Race tracks, baseball grounds, skating rinks, a theatre, and an agricultural society rose from the ground at our bidding, so to speak. All we had to do was to wax enthusiastic, visit the townspeople with a subscription list, and the money was collected. In the matter of organizations for public recreation and amusement we were 'right there'. But the one centre of community life, the essential pivot of our social betterment was allowed to lag. Church meetings have been held here, there and everywhere, and the congregation have been without a permanent home ever since the town started.

In the old days, when Vulcan was able to boast not more than six buildings, the faithful few gathered in the 'upper room' over the Lindsay hardware store. From there they migrated to the Ferrodale school house, but a growing congregation forced them to the old Shimp hall on Railway Avenue. The Elves hall was the next home, and from there the meetings were held in the Masonic hall, in which the last service was held last Sunday evening. On Easter Sunday the congregation will be in the full panoply of a new and permanent home. The wanderings in the wilderness are at an end, and the building of promise which for so long has been the dream of the older end of our residents, has at last materialized. It is little use enquiring into the why and wherefore of the delay. Let it suffice that after seven years pilgrimage the people enter upon the inheritance which is theirs by Divine right.

NOTES

The taking of the British Columbia soldiers' vote on the question of prohibition seems to have been nothing short of a farce if one is to take for granted what has been said by W. D. Bailey the prohibition scrutineer in London. He declares that the methods resorted to by the 'wets' were irregular. More than one poll was held in England, and the soldiers were told that the Government was holding another poll owing to the ballots from France having been lost in the channel. Many of the soldiers therefore voted innocently enough, twice. Other manipulations occurred with the result that when the soldiers vote was taken the 5,600 prohibition lead obtained in British Columbia was drowned in a 'wet' majority of about 2,000.

After the appointing of a commission to inquire whether it would be propitious for the Government to start a move for peace, the Swiss parliament has recently decided, by a vote of 88 to 22, to take no action in the matter at the present time.

This action has its political side which is of interest to us. When the war was in favour of the Germans, Switzerland took no active interest in peace movements. Now that the tide is turning in favour of the Entente, the parliament decides to let the matter rest and let events take their course. By this action it is easy to see that the sympathies of Switzerland are with the Entente, for rather than start a move for peace at the present time, they allow the Allies to push their campaign. Switzerland has much to lose and nothing to gain by a German victory.

The Germans are at last at the door of realization as far as their policy has affected the United States, for the latter is practically at war, awaiting only the formal recognition of Congress. The decision of the United States has been greeted as the only possible decision, by the British and the United States press.

From the very first it has seemed impossible that the United States, with its high democratic ideas and ideals, could stand patiently by and witness the forces of a retrograde Germany endeavouring to swamp humanity with the doctrines of lawlessness and barbarism. The day was bound to come, sooner or later when the United States would have to take action, for she could not, by silence, give consent to the depredation of Germany.

That New "REO SIX"

Is Certainly Popular

Even Reo, the fifth feels the competition of the big beautiful new Reo Six, in the popularity contest at the automobile shows. Of course the Reos are the center of attraction--the Reo exhibit is always the center of a crowd.

That has always been the case since the first show. Why, without the Reo it wouldn't be an automobile show--only part of one. This Newest Reo has certainly taken buyers by storm. Have you seen this Six, the refined, improved addition of that Reo model that was so popular last season, that the company were unable to supply the demands by several thousand? If you haven't then you cannot appreciate the wonderful smoothness of the motor; the sturdiness of the chassis; the beauty of the new straight line body--in a word, the wonderful value this car represents. And, it isn't "a good car for the money," merely we Reo folks do not want you to consider it in that way.

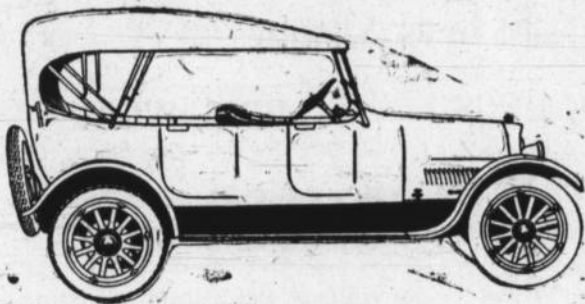

IT IS A GOOD CAR without a single reservation--a good car. It wasn't designed or made to meet a predetermined price. It was built just as well as Reo experience and Reo engineering knew how--and the upholstery and finish are in keeping with its mechanical excellence. It represents all that is better and surer in the advance of the science of automobile building and of body craft. It is the very epitome of Reo experience--and that the oldest, the ripest in this industry. Reo the fifth, recognized the world over as the gold standard of value, must not be forgotten. Among Automobile Manufacturers there is a pretty firm conviction that the ultimate car for the greater class of users will be, not a six, an eight or a twelve, but a four. The pendulum will swing to the extreme--but it will return to the other extreme and finally find equilibrium. In the last analysis, low cost of up-keep will be the deciding factor.

REO, the fifth, which has been standard in practically its present form for seven seasons, has done more to prove the ruggedness, the dependability, and the low maintenance cost of fours than any other automobile ever made. Not, the cheapest to buy, but the cheapest to own.

Price $1850, f.o.b. Vulcan

Call at the General Service Garage and look them over. A free demonstration will be gladly given.

I want you to decide for yourself which car you buy, but before you buy any other make of car I would like to show you the Reo line for your own satisfaction if nothing more, because I feel certain that if you buy another without first examining the Reo--When you see the Reo you will--yes, you might be sorry.

WE want you to list with us. Give us all the particulars regarding buildings, cultivation and other improvements, also prices and terms. Send to us for listing forms, or better still, call and see us at once. We operate very actively in all the above districts, and we are at present in touch with many buyers, local, from the United States and Eastern Canada, who are wanting good farming propositions for grain growing and stock raising. We want your listings whether your land is suitable for either grain or mixed farming, and either raw or improved.

OUR long experience in the Real Estate business is sufficient assurance that we can handle your property to the very best advantage for you. If you want to sell at all, now is the time; we can sell it for you provided your price or terms are right. THE TORONTO LADIES QUARTETTE

The visit of the Toronto Ladies Quartette to Vulcan last Friday was not so well supported as it should have been. It is only when we have such entertainments of a musical nature visit us that we are afforded the opportunity of coming into touch with the musical at all. Our position, in common with that of other prairie towns, is isolated. As a rule the only places worthy of the advance agent's notice are the cities, and if we want to hear music we, too, must go to the cities. Ever and anon there is a rift in the clouds of obscurity—as there was on Friday—and we take no notice of it. After all, is there any wonder for the advance agent having an eye for the fleshpots of the cities?

The concert was of a high order without being out of range. The classical did not obtrude save in the instrumental numbers, and then the choice was wise. Rachmaninoff may be a modernist, but his music has its appeal. The sextette from 'Lucia' is also sufficiently popular to be appreciated and in both the piano numbers Miss van Luyen played with a brilliance and mastery of technique that were undeniable. A word must also be said in regard to her accompanying, particularly in the one for the violin solo, Mazurka de concert, (Musin). Miss McMullen, the violinist, got the most out of her playing, technically; the numbers she played afforded her scope. But technique is only the lesser half of playing. It leaves us cold when the greater half, sentiment, is left, willy-nilly, to take care of itself.

One would like to say more about Miss Foster, the contralto, but she was so much at the mercy of a cold that it was impossible for her to do herself justice. The elocutionist, Miss Cocking, was also a sufferer from the same complaint, and though both ladies gave us pleasant numbers, little idea of their true merits could be gathered.

Mr. Butler, the manager of the Shimp hall, has renovated and improved the hall splendidly, and has also provided adequate means of exit. It is now a comfortable hall, and some praise is due to Mr. Butler, who informs us that he will commence giving picture shows on Thursday of this week.

STATISTICS ON POTATO CROP

Canada last year produced 61,229,000 bushels of potatoes from 449,000 acres. In 1915 the yield was 62,605,000 bushels from 479,000 acres, an average per acre of 136.21 bushels in 1916 and 130.85 bushels in 1915. Potato exports were nearly three times as great in value the twelve months ending Dec. 31st, 1916, as in the preceding year, but these exports are expressed in dollars, and potatoes during the greater part of last year averaged higher in price than in the year before. The Industrial Institute at Rome estimates the potato production of Canada, United States, France, Great Britain, Italy, Holland and Japan at 1,053,209,000 bushels for 1916, a reduction of 11.4 per cent from the five-year average. Germany and Austria are among the world's largest potato producers, and are believed to have harvested a very light potato crop last season. It is apparent, so far as the other countries are concerned, that the shortage in the crop is not sufficient to cause the entire advance that has occurred in prices. In the United States, where the advance is the greatest, the congestion on the railways and the lack of transportation facilities are believed to be largely responsible for the great increase in the retail price of potatoes, an increase that in some cities carried potato prices to as high as $5.50 per bushel.

FARM LAND VALUES

A bulletin issued today by the Census and Statistics Office reports on the values of farmlands and of farm help, as returned by crop correspondents at the end of January.

For the whole of Canada the average value of farm land held for agricultural purposes, whether improved or unimproved, and including the value of dwelling houses, stables and other farm buildings, is approximately $41 per acre, as compared with $40 last year.

The average wages paid for farm help during 1916 have reached a higher level than in any previous year for which returns have been collected. For the whole of the Dominion the wages per month during the summer, including board, averaged $43.23 for males and $22.46 for female help, as compared with $37.10 and $20.20 in 1915.
